

Returns the speed of one object relative to another (works with items moved by physics or object position events)

positive = toward
negative = away